Good Afternoon,

Last week I was fortunate to attend the National League of Cities (NLC) Congressional City Conference from March 4-9 in Washington, D.C. This conference brought together more than 1,000 elected and appointed city leaders from across the country to focus on federal policy issues that are important to local governments.

The NLC is a bipartisan organization dedicated to helping city leaders build better communities. Throughout the year the NLC advocates for cities and towns in Washington, D.C. through full-time lobbying and grassroots campaigns. The Congressional City Conference is a unique opportunity for city leaders to join the NLC's efforts and advocate on behalf of the NLC's federal action priorities, benefitting Glendale and cities everywhere.

The conference included sessions and learning opportunities where I was able to gather tangible takeaways to bring back home on a variety of topics important to our community on topics such as infrastructure, public safety, community resilience, and economic development that will make me a stronger advocate for the Ocotillo District. As a member, I have been appointed by NLC Leadership to the National Human Development Policy and Advocacy Committee. My Committee is responsible for developing policy positions on issues concerning social services, children and learning, poverty and income support, employment and workforce development, equal opportunity, Social Security and seniors, individuals with disabilities, public health care, mental health parity, and immigration reform. All of which are important issues to the Ocotillo District.

This week I was also able to receive a briefing from the consultant that represents all 14 west valley cities to protect Luke Air Force Base and the base's missions including the F-35. Additionally, I was also able to join the Arizona delegation in receiving a briefing from Lockheed Martin, the manufacturer of the F-35, on the state of the federal program and how possible threats to the program will impact Luke AFB. you know, Luke is a billion dollar economic driver for this region and the viability of the base and its missions is critical for Glendale and must be monitored and protected.

I met directly with Glendale's Congressman Ruben Gallego in his office to discuss many issues important to Glendale and the Ocotillo District. The Glendale delegation was also able to meet directly with Senator Jeff Flake and I was proud to be able to represent our district. Finally I had the opportunity to meet with representatives of the White House Office of Intergovernmental Programs which is directly responsible for coordinating with cities and towns to make sure the administration is helping to meet the needs of local communities.

In summary the conference was invaluable in helping me become a better educated and informed Councilmember and advocate for the Ocotillo District and the City of Glendale.

Sincerely,
Councilman Jamie Aldama
Ocotillo District

City of Glendale Pavement Management Program

The following is a tentative schedule and information on the overlay process for Union Hills Drive, from 59th Avenue to 75th Avenue; and 59th Avenue, from Bell Road to Union Hills Drive:

The overlay process is currently scheduled to take place daily beginning Thursday, March 3rd, and will take approximately 2-3 weeks to complete. During the mill/overlay operations, business and resident access will be maintained; however, traffic will be restricted. Side streets and driveways will be maintained except when the work crosses driveways or access points. Vehicular access to driveways and side streets will not be permitted for short periods (30 minutes or less). It is important for the quality of the overlay that vehicles do not immediately travel on it; therefore, construction crews may block driveways or direct travelers for a short time.

GLENDALE PUBLIC LIBRARY OFFERS PROFESSIONAL GUIDANCE TO ASPIRING WRITERS

Published author helps with writing skills

Amy K. Nichols, author of "Now That You're Here and While You Were Gone", is taking up residence at Glendale's Main Library through May to share her expertise and help novice writers hone their skills and become published authors.

As part of Glendale Public Library's Writers in Residence Program, Nichols will be conducting several workshops and offering one-on-one guidance sessions with aspiring writers. "Many people dream of being published, but don't know where to start or think somehow such a goal isn't possible for them. This program brings published and aspiring authors together with the goal of helping people write the stories only they can tell," said Nichols.

Upcoming workshops include two teen writing programs, "Build a Fantasy Story" on March 21 and "Flash Fiction" on May 16 and a series of three adult writing workshops entitled "The Road to Publication" slated for March through May.

"The Writer in Residence Program is a great chance for authors to meet and work with their fans and for our library users to better visualize themselves as writers. It not only inspires writers to write, it provides practical tools and information to help them get their stories out into the world," said Kearsten LaBrozzi, Glendale Teen Librarian.

Nichols' open office hours and one-on-one meetings with aspiring writers will be held 2-4 p.m. most Monday afternoons and Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 11 a.m. to 12 p.m., at the Main Library, 5959 W. Brown St.

The Writers in Residence Program is supported by Arizona State Library, a division of the Secretary of State, with federal funds from the Institute of Museum and Library Services. For more information about Writers in Residence or other Glendale Public Library programs, call 623-930-3530 or visit www.glendaleaz.com/library.
